Speakers Chosen For Graduation

Lila Whitaker, Phyllis Jones, Bill Dougherty and James Handley have been chosen as speakers for high school commencement exercises to be held Thursday, June 3 at 8 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium, Superintendent G. W. Getsinger announced yesterday.

The program will open with the Processional, March from Der Meistersinger, Wagner, by the high school orchestra, when the seniors in their navy blue caps and gowns will take their place on the stage. The invocation will be given, followed by an orchestral selection, Chorale and Overture on Russian Themes, Tschaikowsky, arranged by Merle Isaac, directed by Jaffrey Harris.

The student speakers will then deliver their addresses, Lila Whitaker speaking on "Reminiscing," Phyllis Jones, "Carmel High School Grows Up"; Bill Dougherty, "Youth and the War"; and James Handley, "The Future."

God is a Spirit, Schalin, and Sea of Stars, Hungarian Folk Song, by the Girls' Choir under the direction of Miss Angie Machado is to follow the talks.

The class will be presented by J. W. Getsinger, with Hugh W. Comstock, president of the board of trustees, presenting the diplomas.

Following benediction, the orchestra will play the recessional, Triumphal March from Aida, Verde.

There is to be a reception at the Sunset library for friends and parents of the graduates im-

Amphibian Butterflies Light on the Hoof, G.I. Boots Notwithstanding, And Carmel Goes Home Humming Hits

Carmel straggled through a low wet fog into the noise and horseplay of the Amphibian Engineers' all soldier show "Talk It Up," Tuesday night, laughed itself into a glow of good humor and streamed out of Sunset Auditorium saying, "That dance of Cpl. Frank Mason as Sultan Benny Bon Ami amused me out of my wits. Pete Mazzarella and Joe Menghini did a better job as the front and back legs of El Toro than as Hitler and Mussolini. When they took those romping jumps across the stage . . . I'll take Edgar and the Cossacks. How about '23 Skidoo Girls'? It requires the physique of an Amphibian engineer to dance the can-can in regulation boots. Of course, it was just a lot of nonsense but — wasn't it good!" And so off to bed humming, "Always Beside You."

And next morning those who fancied themselves as critics but had enjoyed themselves so much the night before that they had neglected to stick to their criticizing, went around with a heavy brow trying to put the finger on just what was so good about the

TALES OF A TANKER

James Southwell returned this week after seven and a half months on a gasoline tramp steamer that distributed its cargo along the coast of South America and limped home with five foot squids in the bilge, and barnacles so thick on her bottom that her speed dropped from ten knots to four. There were layovers and shore leave in various colorful South American ports, and Southwell, who had his eyes about him, comes home with a tale to tell which he does vividly and entertainingly on the feature page of this issue.

Newest Citizen Writes of First Day In Carmel

Carmel, the magic word to any aspiring writer or artist, Carmel, nestling on the shores of the blue-watered Pacific. Even her name spells romance. I remember last year while still a rookie in the army, we were issued our first six hour passes, and off we were to see Carmel, to walk around her picturesque streets, to gaze into the windows of her quaint stores. Sure we

Clanging Cymbals Gets Pre-View of Kuster's Women

By LYNDY SARGENT

Tall chunks of red meat, not too carefully rationed and at times well undressed; butter and butter, if foully rancid; shelves full of canned things, canned husbands and wives; a picked item or two; and all this deliciously marinated in a brand of vinegar that spouts spontaneously from the gutters and gargoyle of the Park Avenues of the world . . . these are the females in The Women, to open at the Carmel Play House Saturday afternoon for a four performance run.

If you have sat under the drier in a beauty parlor and listened to that gabble and glut!

If you have been in one of Sally Milgrim's fitting rooms and just as you open your mouth to give your husband's business address for your charge account, a feminine floozy in the next room opens hers and does it for you . . .

If you are fed up on war bonds and hup, two, three, four and P-38's and measly half-pounds of minced meat, and you want to be just plain entertained, you want a belly laugh . . .

If you would like to feed your own face on the sight of thirty smooth-bevelled ladies, tearing at each other's too, too manured flesh with none too delicate teeth, scuttling with nicely calculated bawdiness from one's husband to another's . . .

Then go and see Ted Kuster's production of Clare Boothe's play sometime over the weekend.

Take it from me, your soul will

Business Stops For Exercises

Stores are to be closed Sunday between 12:30 and 1 o'clock during the Memorial Day ceremonies in Devendorf Plaza, Adolph Laffrenz, president of the Carmel Business Association announced yesterday.

The first half of the exercises, in charge of the Carmel Post of the American Legion, include brief talks by Mayor P. A. McCreeery and E. H. Ewig, commander of the local post, and a prayer by the Legion Chaplain, Dr. Frank P. Topping.

The Navy then takes over, Chaplain F. R. Hamilton from Del Monte Pre-Flight school saying the prayer, a firing squad from the Naval Section Base in Monterey under commander M. J. Peterson, firing the salute, and a bugler from Del Monte Pre-Flight playing taps.

The roster of Carmel's war dead carved on the memorial stone now reads:

Gordon Bain, RAF, 1942
Carlyle Lewis, USA Air Corps, 1942
Billie B. Junkins, U. S. Navy, 1942
Ted Leidig, USN Air Corps, 1943

Editorials

Double Duty for The Flanders Poppy

Mrs. M. J. Peterson, President of the American Legion Auxiliary, here makes an appeal that the Editor of the Pine Cone Cymbal passes on gladly to her readers, confident that it will receive appropriate response.

Mrs. Peterson writes:

"Don't fail to buy a veteran-made red poppy on Saturday, May the 29th!

"This year the American Legion Auxiliary carries a double load, now that the disabled veterans of World War II are also in need of the Auxiliary's services. Within the next few months the families of service men of this war will present additional problems and the Auxiliary stands ready, as always, to meet them, with the public's generous help. Purchasing a poppy this year will be making a contribution for the welfare of both World War I and II veterans and their families.

"For those who do not know or who, perhaps, have forgotten, the red paper Flanders poppy is handmade in California government hospitals by disabled veterans, and they receive three cents for every poppy made. Sixty percent of net proceeds is spent in our own communities for child welfare, rehabilitation and education. Forty percent goes to the State Department in California for welfare of the veteran and his family. Auxiliary members receive no pay for selling poppies. Funds will be used also for veterans of this war.

May Ceremonies At Villa Angelica Monday Afternoon

Outdoor ceremonies will take place on Monday, May 31, at 2:30 p.m. at Villa Angelica, when pupils of the Notre Dame school will march in procession, singing hymns to Our Lady, the Litany to the Blessed Virgin in Latin, and crown Our Lady queen of the May.

Father Michael O'Connell will give the benediction and address the students.

The current term at Villa Angelica closes on June 4th.

NO REST FOR THE WICKED

The hard-working Carmel post office staff had a shock yesterday on receiving official notice from Washington, D. C., that the custom of closing the postoffice on Monday following a Sunday holiday (Memorial Day and the Fourth of July) will be discontinued. This year on the Monday after, they will work. That means next Monday!

Big Turnout for First Barn Door Canteen at USO

The Barn Door Canteen, from now on to be a regular Saturday feature at the Carmel USO, under the direction of Lee Crowe and Mrs. James Cooke, opened on the evening of May 22nd with gay and original festivities and an enthusiastic attendance of around five hundred service men.

The fun started with a parade which assembled at Devendorf Plaza at 7:30 and proceeded along Ocean avenue and Dolores to the USO. Mrs. Cooke, Miss K. Helen McKinstry, director of the Carmel USO, Betty Greene, whose horses as well as those from Lynn Hodges' stables were loaned for the occasion, and a soldier, all attired in bright western garb, were the riders, accompanied by such fantastic figures as the Wolf from Fort Ord, Lee Crowe as the Jackass, and Ferdinand the Bull. There was also little Sockeye, the pony.

The decorations committee, which included Jacqueline Hodges, Edith Fonteneau, Franklin Dixon, Ruth Cooke, Lee Crowe and Helen Heavy had provided a realistic and amusing background for the evening's entertainment. From Noel Sullivan's farm there were goats, lambs, hens, pigeons and a bull calf, all in a perfect barnyard setting, among the harness and farm implements from Hodges' stables, Navajo rugs loaned by Marie Short and Helen Heavy's old barouche. The long tables were covered with red and white checkered cloths, and light was provided by candles stuck in bottles.

On the little stage barn lanterns were used for foots; overhead lights came from lanterns loaned by the Carmel street department and a spotlight from Sunset school, provided by its principal, Mrs. Helen Wood, Lloyd Weir in jeans and bandanna, as master of ceremonies, introduced the various acts, opening with the Hillbilly Band from Fort Ord. Mrs. Edith Anderson, in cowgirl garb, sang "Sweetheart" from "Maytime," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "Smiling Through," then reappeared in velvet and plumes as Madame Gadsby to give her famous First Theater olio number in burlesque of a prima donna, to the delight of her audience.

Katie Martin, in grotesque costume and makeup, her feet encased in waste paper baskets, played the accordion, mouth organ and danced simultaneously to roars of applause.

At the piano, Susan Ellen Du-

(Continued from page 1) town, walked around, talked to the pastor for awhile in front of the Church of the Wayfarer, then headed for the beach. Tired of lying around, I took a walk along the shore, but stopped in surprise when I saw a body floating on a rubber mat in one of the coves.

The body was alive. It was fishing. We talked about the fish and things, and he asked me if I'd care to try it. I did and found it very interesting.

His name was Malcolm D. Whitman, Jr. He later on let me read an article he wrote in this paper, "Technique of Taking," all about the fishing we had been doing.

Went for a ride in his motor boat on the Carmel River. Laughed at the clumsy way the pelicans had of coming to a landing. Left Malcolm and went up town, ate at Sade's, made a tennis date with Larry. Drove up town and stopped to talk to Miss Jannette McIndoo, one of the popular Carmel twins. I still don't know which is which. Got a ticket for parking on the wrong side of the street.

Went to the show to see Random Harvest. It was very good.

Ate a soda at Walt's, and feeling tired, headed for home. My car, "Nellie," broke down, so had to walk. Got lost. Finally found the house. Sat by the fireside for a while and then to bed and to sleep. My first day in Carmel and I felt a real part of the town. — Woodie Rothe, "Better Ole", Carmel Woods.

Heroism at Guadalcanal Wins Medal

Major Leland G. Cagwin, whose wife, the former Jacqueline Smith, is making her home in Carmel with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Smith, was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross on April 20, 1943.

Presentation was made by Lieut. General Willard P. Harmon, commanding officer of the U. S. forces in the South Pacific. At the time of the incident for which the award was made, Major Cagwin held the rank of Captain and was commanding an infantry company. His promotion to the rank of a major has since occurred.

His citation reads: "for extraordinary heroism in January, 1943, at Guadalcanal. In an attack upon an enemy bivouac area when the members of the patrol began to hesitate because of heavy enemy fire, Cagwin advanced to the front and led the men against the enemy-held ridge they were storming. In spite of heavy fire from automatic weapons, the patrol cut through the defenses, captured one 77 mm gun and one heavy machine gun and killed 78 enemy soldiers.

The following day, January 16, he led a second patrol into an enemy controlled area, personally killing five enemy soldiers, and leading in the rout of the opposing forces. On a third occasion Cagwin led a small patrol into another enemy bivouac area and personally captured an enemy non-commissioned officer, who furnished information valuable for further actions."

Major Cagwin, a West Point graduate with the class of 1940, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Cagwin of Carbondale, Pa.

"I can be reached at Sunset School, phone 787, any day between 1 and 3 o'clock. Our mail address is Box 600, Carmel."

Sixteen leading farmers of Carmel Valley received this communication:

"Do you have any need for summer help which our high school boys might be suited for? There are a number of boys from 14 to 17 years of age who would like to find farm jobs, and we would like to place them where they can be most useful."

"Would you pass this word on to your neighbors when you have the opportunity? We would like to line up the work which is available before school closes on June 4 as much as possible. But we will keep an employment office open all summer, and will be glad to have your requests at any time."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

C.H.S. WINS TENNIS TITLE

Last Saturday, May 22, a North Coast Section Tennis Tournament was held at Berkeley, where all champion leagues participated, as far north as the Oakland Bay Area.

Milton Thompson and Bill Dougherty, of Carmel High represented this county in the doubles matches, and out of all champion leagues, defeated Piedmont 6-4, 6-3, and came through as the winners in doubles, of the North Coast Section Tournament.

Mr. Marrs, tennis instructor of Carmel high school, deserves much credit for his work, as Milton and Bill do on their excellent coordination. This makes them the championship doubles team of Northern California. — Stanley Ewig.

BARDARSON MEMORIAL

The flag ripples against the dusty blue sky. That wavering piece of cloth stands guardian over a simple, stone memorial. A rough, sea-gray boulder cups the simple marble plaque:

"In Memory of
OTTO W. BARDARSON
Our Principal and Friend
1943"

We will never forget Bardy. Our campus is the greatest memorial possible. But the graduating class of 1943 knew that time would bring new students. So this simple memorial was placed before an ancient oak to act as an eternal reminder of Mr. Bardarson, our principal, our guide, and above all, our friend.

The storm may rip the flag. The sun may dull its field. But forever below that symbol of freedom will stand this silent tribute. — Arnold Pilling.

THEY ARE FLITTING SOON

If this summer while swinging in the hammock you decide that you had better get in some extra schooling or some advice about "C" average colleges, we warn you now that it will be no use because:

Mrs. Walker will be studying in Los Angeles for a few weeks. You could write to her, but it would be very uncertain, for she plans to take a trip to Mexico, and from there she will go to Redlands to teach.

Mr. Getsinger will be here until the 20th of June. Then he will go to the Stanford School of Education for eight weeks. He might be able to have a week's vacation this summer! Cross him off your list. He'll be much too busy.

Miss McNamara will return to Stanford for the summer session, where she will concentrate on commercial work in the Graduate School of Business.

Mrs. Brey will be in Tahoe for two weeks, then at Stanford for eight more weeks studying psychology. You might be able to reach her at her ranch while she gets in a prune crop on a 300 acre prune ranch, but we doubt it.

Miss Sheldon will be away up in Portland, Oregon. She and her friends will take a week to get to Portland and they plan to camp out each night. When she gets up there she will be with the Recreation Unit for the Housing Units for the Recreation Dept. If you can get all that on one envelope perhaps you could write to her, but we have a sneaking suspicion that she may be busy too!

Mrs. Collins will be in Pennsylvania just about the time you need some scholastic advice. She is going to join her husband, who is in the army.

Mrs. Down will be going to school this summer. She will be at the University of California.

Miss Burtis is very undecided about the summer. She hopes to go to New York where she will visit her brother and do some studying. There is not much chance of her being in Carmel at any rate.

Miss Hopple's plans for this summer are very indefinite as are Miss Edlen's. The motto of this story is: There is no time like the present. — Ann Pierce.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD

Carmel High school has received the certificate of Distinguished Service from the United States Treasury Department, for selling stamps and bonds, and for purchasing a jeep for the army. — Helen Passadori.

GIRLS BASEBALL

Baseball season for the girls started about three weeks ago.

Probably one of the fastest and best games thus far, was the senior, freshman diamond tilt. In the tight two innings which were played the seniors trounced the frosh 4-0, scoring the first shut-out game in the series. — Ann Casati.

RATION STAMPS 15-16

Stamps 15 and 16 in Ration Book No. 1 are good for five pounds each of canning sugar. Stamp No. 13, good for table sugar may be used after June 1. The original intention of the board to issue coupons for 25 pounds of canning sugar per person for the season has been changed. Coupons for only 15 pounds per person will be issued, the additional ten pounds to be obtained through use of Stamp No. 15 and 16.

Lt. W. J. Bowden Lions' Speaker

Lt. W. J. Bowden of the Del Monte Pre-Flight school was guest of Eben Whittlesey and speaker at the Lions' Club dinner meeting at the Pine Inn Tuesday evening.

He told the members of the work of the pre-flight school in preparing prospective navy aviators by physical training, mathematics, aircraft recognition and indoctrination courses for more advanced training at flight school.

The six pre-flight schools now active in the United States are turning out 30,000 cadets yearly, he reported. And though as yet they have not been able to check completely on the results of their method of training, they soon shall be able to do so, as the men are beginning to see action in the Pacific.

John Hagen was the guest of Lew Kramer.

TO SAN FRANCISCO

Mrs. George W. ("Kippy") Stuart, left on Wednesday to spend a few days in San Francisco.

FAIR WARNING

... before you board

the Train!

Train travel is different in wartime. Nowadays S. P. trains are generally crowded, often late, and some cars aren't bright and shiny like they used to be. You may have to wait quite a while to get into the dining car on some trains.

The reason is—our war job!

Equipment, including dining cars, must be diverted constantly for military use. Troop trains and war freights often move over our lines on emergency schedules to which regular service must be adapted. The need for cars is so pressing that it is often impossible to take them out of service for renovation and overhaul.

We are short of cars, locomotives, manpower—but we're putting first things first and pushing the war trains through. After the war is won, S. P. hopes to make up to you for today's uncomfortable train travel. Meantime we suggest you follow this...

Wartime Traveler's Guide

1. Unless your train trip is really essential please don't make it.
2. If you must travel, do so on Tuesdays or Wednesdays or Thursdays. Avoid week-ends—that's when our trains are most crowded.
3. Cancel space reservations promptly if your plans change. Train space is too precious nowadays to go unused.
4. Travel light—take with you on the train only baggage you'll need on the train. Check other baggage at least a day in advance.
5. Help stretch available train accommodations by buying just the space you really need—no more, no less. Share your bedroom, compartment or drawing room with a friend.
6. Eat before you board the train if possible. For many trains it may be well to bring your lunch or buy a box lunch (for lunch or any meal).
7. If you eat in the dining car, please remember other folks are waiting. No need to bolt your meal—but please don't linger over it.

Mrs. Hewetson Gets Word of Son in Philippines

Word was received on March 20 from Marine Corps Headquarters by his mother, Mrs. Clem Hewetson of Pacific Grove, the former Mrs. Ruby Jones of Carmel, that Chief Cook Alex N. Jones, U. S. Marine Corps, reported missing at the time of Philippine capitulation, is alive and listed among Japanese prisoners of war.

This is the first news received by his family since war was declared. The last visit Mrs. Hewetson had with her son was on Thanksgiving Day, three years ago, when he spent the holiday in Carmel with his relatives. He has been a member of the Marine Corps for the past four years and was on active duty at Cavite when captured.

His sister, the former Miss Sarah Jones, served for a time as cashier in the Carmel Theater, and resides at present in North Carolina, where her husband, Major Rex Light, is stationed in the glider division.

An aunt, Mrs. L. L. Benson, makes her home in Carmel, as do his two cousins, Mrs. Harry Hilbert and Mrs. Harold Studevant — the latter an employee in the Carmel Post Office.

Gordon Ewig Delivers Sermon in Stanford Chapel

Following his success in winning second place for Stanford University in the Annual Pacific Forensic League Conference in Los Angeles by his speech "Return to Self" which was printed in the Pine Cone Cymbal April 30, Gordon Ewig delivered the sermon at services in Stanford Memorial Chapel Sunday morning.

According to custom, once a year three students are asked to conduct the Sunday services in the chapel, one to read the lesson, one to announce the hymn and one to ascend the pulpit and deliver the sermon. Over 600 people were present in the chapel last Sunday, among them Gordon Ewig's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ewig, and his brother Stanley, who drove up from Carmel to Stanford to attend the services.

Carmel Hill Station Gets New Fire Truck, Can Be Used in Town

Better fire protection for Carmel is assured in the announcement made this week from the Carmel Civilian office that the State has allocated to the Carmel Hill Forestry Fire station a two and a half ton truck equipped with a 500 gallon per minute pump, a 400 gallon booster tank and 200 feet of fire hose.

Though its primary purpose is protection of the forest areas outside the city limits, the pumper would be available to the Carmel Fire Department in case of emergency, and the department will train a crew that will be prepared to handle it if an emergency arises.

The Carmel Civilian Defense was active in procuring the equipment for the Hill Station.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Chaplain Frank R. Hamilton of the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School, Del Monte, who has his home in Carmel, will deliver commencement addresses at the Douglas school June 2, and at the Carmel Valley school, June 3.

He also is scheduled to speak to the officers and men at the Salinas Army Air Base, May 21; at the San Jose Rotary Club, May 26 and at a public meeting at Watsonville early in June.

GRADUATION GIFTS for a future of useful service

This year, graduates are aware of the seriousness of their commencement. Many are graduating from cap and gown to cap and uniform. Others are going into essential war jobs. Many are continuing their education — in those fields where trained workers are most needed by our nation. Holman's have anticipated the importance of this graduation and offer a big selection of gifts, worthy of the occasion.

Our Play

Miss Norman's room is going to have a play. It is on Mexico. The story is from The Painted Pig. We have made baskets and flowers for the dancing girls. Everyone in the room is helping in some way. We are going to give it twice, on May 27 at 11 o'clock and on May 28 at 11 o'clock. Our mothers are especially invited on Thursday the 27th. We are giving it then for the smaller children and it will not be as crowded as on Friday. — Anne Whitaker, Grade 5.

Saturday's Fun

Last Saturday Carol Burrows, Janice Hatton and I rode our bikes to the Carmel valley. When we started we bought a carton of "cokes" and Carol was carrying them. We were riding along calmly, and the first thing we knew was that there were broken "coke" bottles all over the middle of the street. A lady who saw the accident take place, gave us a broom—to sweep up the glass. When we finished that, we were on our way again.

When we got to the river it looked so nice and cool, we just had to jump in even though we stepped on polliwogs each time we took a step. We had a long ride back but we enjoyed it. — Ruth Clark, 5th Grade.

A Visit to the Bank

Tuesday we went to the Bank of Carmel. Mr. Hilbert showed us around. He showed us the machine that puts the date and the name of the bank on the back of each check. We saw the machine that takes pictures of all the checks. He took us into the vault and we saw the safe and the counting machine. He showed us how it works. There are bigger tubes for bigger pieces of money. We saw the hole that ventilates the vault. There is a pipe that sucks in the air. It was a very nice visit. — Whealen Koontz, 2nd Grade.

Swimming

On Saturday I went swimming in the Del Monte swimming pool. It has salt water and you can't sink very easily. If you ask you can get a little pole with tin cans on each end. I got one and let go of it. It floated away out in deep water. The very deepest is eight feet. I was afraid to go after it but I finally got it.

— Mary Bette Hill, 5th Grade.

The Picnic

Sunday we went to a dam some miles up the Carmel Valley. We swam and fished. There were some fish that pinched me on the leg. I jumped about three feet, it scared me so. I could not see what it was but I got out of the swimming hole. We went on the picnic because my father and brother wanted to fish. — Shirley Slipner, Grade 5.

Some Fun

Yesterday my cousins and I cleaned our pool. The pool is five feet deep. All of my cousins can swim and so can I. We filled it yesterday too. When I get home from school today I am going in the pool and my cousins will swim, too. It is lots of fun. — Bradford Conger, 5th Grade.

Two Pets

A few days ago my brother brought home a rat and a mouse. A mouse is smaller than a rat. The rat's name is Little Bug and the mouse's is Butch. Little Bug is not afraid of me and will eat out of my hand, but Butch will not. I have lots of fun with them. I let Little Bug climb over me but Butch I can't get hold of. — Bobby Sapsis, Grade 5.

My White Rat

My brother brought home a white rat from high school. He's a cute little rascal and when you stick your finger in the cage he nibbles it and it hurts too, for he has sharp teeth. We feed him cream-of-wheat, lettuce, canned milk and carrots, but we don't know whether he eats it all or not.

Eighth Grade Party for the Seventh

Last Saturday night, May 23, at 7:30, the eighth grade gave a dance for the two seventh grades at Sunset school. Most all of the seventh grades came, so there were over 100 people present. Everyone had a good time. They served refreshments consisting of "coke" and cookies which were very good. There was dancing for all and as usual every year, the eighth grade willed something to the seventh grade. The party lasted until 10:30 at night. — Pat Dormody, 7th Grade.

EMPLOYMENT

Mrs. Helen Wood, principal of Sunset School, came into the seventh grade classroom last week and asked how many wanted jobs for the summer. Many people wanted them. I think that it is a good thing. It will help National Defense by letting men join the armed forces. It will help the children learn about jobs like farming and clerking. Yes, we will take over. — Peter Carpenter, Grade 7.

Jess Ojeda Steps Into Conrad's Part In Troupers' Show

"The Fatal Wedding" plays its sixth performance tomorrow night and Sunday night, May 29 and 30, at the First Theater, Monterey, State Monument. Last week's performances turned away dozens of disappointed play-lovers, and this Saturday night is practically sold out. The Troupers of the Gold Coast scored another triumph for their professional abilities last Sunday night, when, with twenty-four hours' warning Jess Ojeda stepped into the part of Clyde Ormond, arch-villain, which Charles Conrad, at the call of the Coast Guard, had to relinquish.

"The Fatal Wedding," with its hilarious olio, plays every Saturday and Sunday nights at the First Theater. Irene Alexander has directed the production, which is under the Denny-Watrous Management.

TO OUR WOMEN

(Bless 'em)

They're really getting in Hitler's Hair!

MAYBE they're not pulling the trigger that fires the gun but they're doing about everything else. High in the Sierra, a woman has just qualified as an operator of a giant hydro-electric power plant so she can take her husband's place.

A little white-haired grandmother is doing her bit converting old wool into lap robes for wheelchair patients.

A young mother is caring for a neighbor's children so the neighbor can finish a research project important to the war effort.

A stenographer is working evenings in a hospital as a Nurse's Aid.

These are America's fighting women! Not merely the few doing brave, spectacular things, but all the millions of more or less untrained, inexperienced women cheerfully nerving themselves to jobs and responsibilities they never dreamed would be theirs!

Nobody can thank them; they wouldn't want it. But we can all say, you're making grand soldiers!... and more power to you in all the new things you are undertaking every day.

IN THIS COMPANY women are helping tremendously to keep up the steady flow of kilowatts vital to war production.

In addition to operating a power house—and a substation—women are engaged in field construction crews, draftswomen, mappers, warehouse helpers, photographers, meter readers, truck and bus drivers, laboratory technicians, and in hundreds of more conventional jobs.

The saying, "We couldn't win without them!" most certainly applies to the women of the electric industry.

TALES OF A TANKER

By JAMES SOUTHWELL, JR.

When the Pine Cone Cymbal inquired if I would write a 1200 word report of my seven and a half months spent on a gasoline tanker in South American waters I foolishly agreed. Now, too late I realize that 12,000 words couldn't suffice, besides, to let you in on a secret . . . "The best tales are never told" . . . So the Pine Cone will have to settle for a few rough notes on the places and events that I kept a record of.

Of the ship I can only write that she was so broken down that five foot squids were found swimming in the bilges, but we patched the split plates and carried on. We gathered barnacles until we dropped from ten knots to four. We pushed the diesels until we had to stop every other day for two hours to fix valves, but we kept her sailing. Only when the precious cargo of gasoline itself started leaking out did we limp back home and make apologies to the war shipping administration that we couldn't stick out our year and thought we needed a few repairs.

The crew was aptly described by a mate as "nothing but wolves in Llama skin." Those with excessive thirsts are known as "gas hounds," and I suffered throughout the trip by being nicknamed "Junior."

My diary calls Panama the cross roads of the world, land of heat, itch and cesspool for all of the white man's vices.

A "B" girl at Kelleys' famous "Club Nocturne" is one who can't speak English and succeeds in getting you to buy her the maximum number of Specials (orange juice) at a dollar a drink. If O. O. McIntyre had walked with me around Panama City, he would have described it something like this: "Dark skinned women passing, leaving a horrible odor of cheap perfume in their wake; small hole-in-the-wall stores with "No Credit" signs (in Spanish) conspicuously posted; open doors revealing nine by nine cubby holes called home where an hombre and his esposa and three or four ninos are crowded — a bed sheet divides the bed from the rest of the room (wonder where the Ninos sleep?). Conspicuous items: what grandma called a slop jar, many religious pictures, a bottle of vino on the table, a jumble of cooking utensils and a hot plate. Ninos are in bare feet eagerly reading the bill boards in front of the movie featuring Captain Midnight and a western thriller. My slumming expedition is over and wearily with three of the gang I am heading back to the ship. One lad has been "rolled," and the other two are giving me the lurid details of their adventures. Adios, sordid Panama.

At (blank) where we are to get our gasoline cargoes, I am disappointed. There are only two kinds of people in this desolate barren place. The well-to-do British and Americans who run the oil refinery and wells, and the poor half-starved natives who work for them. I wonder how we would feel if the Peruvians operated our Texas oil fields, and we labored long and hard to make them rich? I wonder . . .

I had my first impression of Lima when I came in on a bus. Outside of town we passed a woman who looked tired and weary of life trudging along the roadside with faggots on her back, and as if to balance this burden she tenderly carried a baby in front of her in her arms. A few minutes later I was busy dodging beautiful late-model American cars in Lima, many chauffeur driven. When I remarked to an American Embassy employee that "somebody must make money here," he answered, "No they don't make it, they only take it from somebody else." Other impressions: The unsportsman like way a bull fight is conducted. A guide book that warns: "There are few stores that have

NIGHT WIND

Walk with it, talk with it,
Wind in the night;
Sigh with it, cry with it,
Blinding your sight.

Steal with it, reel with it,
Lonely and free;
Ride with it, stride with it,
Wind of the sea.

Scheme with it, dream with it,
Brush its cool bars,
And leave your wild heart with it,
Lost in the stars.

PASSAGE FOR PIZZICATO

Far in the high perpetual snows
Where the Ninth Symphony might move
In pride of majesty and power,
I came upon a singing grove—
Fragrant with hyacinth and rose . . .

An Alpine meadow, warm as breath,
High-sheltered from the world beneath,
Where winged cicadas, wild with song,
Stepped down the theme, stepped up the time,
And with a crisp and crooked rhyme
Made lyric twenty thousand strong.

Clean, sharp and sure, the chips of sound
Fell splintered on the air around—
Plucked from a hundred fingered frets,
Staccato clicked from castanets,
Timed to precision, tense and high,
Linking the silence of the sky
With the glad listening of the ground . . .

Swift pizzicato, fresh as youth,
In the great symphony of earth—
Breaking the lofty mountain mood,
Flinging a sparkling theme of mirth
Through the vast song: infinitude.

—ANON.

TO A POET LOST IN A CLASSROOM

Something in me will not be reconciled
To seeing you eternally barricaded
Behind a wall of faces, stupid, mild,
Self-satisfied or cynically jaded;
Your rebel hair a helmet for a head
Like Shelley's, and the blue fire of your eyes
Rising with each phase of your spirited
Indictment of our age, the compromise
Mad masters force upon an addled world.
I see you striding up a rugged height,
A cloak of timelessness about you furled,
Hurling your songs against the walls of night;
Your dark hair tangled with the flame of Berenice's—
Not growing gray! above eternal theses.

—MARION DOYLE.

REVIEWS

fixed prices." And "Be sure to agree on fare with taxi driver before starting trip." Still I had the impression that the man-in-the-street is hungry for our friendship and help.

Valparaiso at first glimpse resembles a California or Oregon port with its hills and the beautiful sweep of the bay. Coming ashore in a launch one is reminded of European ports by the neat way that the inner small craft harbor has been walled in by stones. Most of it seemed to have been built in an age when labor was cheap and plentiful, and time was but a word.

The business district of the city is predominantly British as proclaimed by the names and the eternal "Ltd." after them. A few German and Italian banks and business houses still continue to function; standing as a challenge to our power to prove our "good neighbor policy." Little Toonerville trolleys chattered by me. Busses honked at me and bulged with their loads of humanity. Here, in contrast to Lima, gasoline has become a rare and precious product. When we divided our load between all the Chilean ports and inland towns it left Valparaiso a mere two quarts of gasoline per business vehicle per week. No wonder the streets were filled with bicycles and horses and wagons. No wonder the leg-weary people spent so much time resting in their beautiful plazas and parks. Valparaiso is one of those places where you delight in seeing the clear distinctions between the old and the new in architecture.

I wish my 1200 words would let me tell about our crew, but it doesn't, so you'll never learn what we saw through the telescopic sights of our gun while we lay at anchor off beautiful Salinas beach (ain't love grand?) or why the vanilla extract disappeared, or the mystery of the bosun's perpetual black eyes, or how to lose $1,000 in a poker game, or what men think and talk about when they ride a hell ship, or how to drown in one easy lesson, or the many tales we swapped in the foc'sle while off watch.

Most of the time we talked about women and what unpredictable creatures they were. One true story Gene told is worth repeating. Sprawled on the bottom of my bunk he drawled, "A good many years ago I was going with a girl called Susanna who lived out of town a bit on a ranch. I rode out in a buggy one Sunday to take her to church and passing her folks on the way they remarked, 'Better hurry, Gene, Susanna is ready and waiting for you.' When I reached the house, there wasn't any answer to my knock, so I walked around to the rear of the place, but the house was empty. Then I thought of the smoke house and hurrying anxiously over to it, I found the door open, and Susanna inside crying like a baby. Thinking that she had had a bad fall or been frightened I tried to stop her bawling. 'Susan,' I spoke soothingly, 'What is it?' But she only sobbed louder. 'Are you hurt? Did something frighten you?' But she only shook her head, and as I cuddled her in to me, I could feel her body quivering with her sobbing. Finally I quieted her, and between little catch breaths she stammered, 'I-I-I can't tell you about it, Gene. It was terrible.' And then there was another torrent of tears. I assured her of my affection. I begged her, whatever the trouble, to confide in me. Finally, buried in my arms and with her sobbing stopped she confided, 'I-I-I was only thinking, if we got married and in a year or two had a little curly-headed boy and just suppose he was five and wandered in here to play and one of the hams fell down on him and killed him, wouldn't it be terrible, Gene, wouldn't it be awful?' and then she was off again breaking her heart and sobbing on my shoulders. Now I ask you, fellows, 'How in hell can a man figure out what is going on inside a woman's mind?' And three heads bobbed in hearty agreement with Gene.

Carmel's Seabee Postmaster Writes Home

Naval Construction Tng. Center
Camp Endicott, Davisville, R. I.
91st Batt., Co. B, P3
May 20th, 1943

Dear postoffice force:

I received the birthday card that each of you signed just a few days ago. Seems the directory service of the navy has its troubles, too. The card was much appreciated. A message from home and friends means a lot to a fellow who hasn't seen a relative or an old friend for many months.

We came here a month ago. It is a great improvement over what we left. The camp is better, the ground isn't muddy, and, of course a military man never forgets his chow; it is better, too.

Little did I expect a year ago last September that I should again visit Boston so soon. Two weeks ago I went to Boston on a 36 hour liberty and saw the city as I had hoped to see it at the postmasters' convention. It is rich in old English architecture of which the churches are the best examples. The historical value is unsurpassed, and contrary to common belief I found the people there very friendly and congenial.

The home of Paul Revere is closed on Sunday but I visited Old North Church where he

Watched with eager search
The belfry tower of the Old
North Church

As it rose above the graves
on the hill,
Lonely and spectral, and somber still.

I climbed the tower and looked out the window where lanterns hung to warn Paul of the approach of the British.

Sunday morning I went to the oldest church still standing in America. It was built in 1659 of stone and appears to be good for another 300 years. Incidentally, it is of my denomination, Unitarian, and is where the Unitarian faith was founded.

As to Boston graveyards, I'll wager even Carmel would accept a similar kind. I saw where Paul Revere was buried, also Mother Goose, the mother and father of Benjamin Franklin, Governor Winthrop, James Otis, and many others that dated back as far as 1660.

Training here is more strenuous than at Camp Peary. We do commando courses, judo, bayonet practice, hikes, and go to school. Last week we spent on the rifle range and I was lucky to qualify as a sharpshooter.

Spring is late here. The trees are just budding out and the country side is only partly green. I haven't seen a flower of any kind as yet.

On June 2nd our battalion goes on its 9 day leaves before being sent to the advanced base dept. for embarkation. We from the west coast will not get ours until later and are hoping it will be from California. If not we will be given 15 days so in either case I'll be greeting you sometime after June 20.

I hope you are all as healthy as I now am, and as happy as I'll be to see Carmel and its beloved citizens.

Best regards,
Ernest S. Bixler CM 1/c.

Mrs. Alfred Wolff left on Tuesday for a two weeks' stay in Santa Barbara, where she will visit with her Coast Guard son, Bob Leith, now stationed at nearby Ventura.

SOMETIMES - ON SOME CALLS - THE LONG DISTANCE OPERATOR WILL SAY —

"Please limit your call to 5 minutes. Others are waiting"

MANY Long Distance calls go through about as fast as ever.

But sometimes there's an extra-heavy rush on certain circuits — especially in war-busy places.

Whenever that happens, the operator will ask you to limit your Long Distance calls to 5 minutes.

The idea is to give everybody a fair share of the wires. That gets to be more and more important every day.

Anna C. Storror

The Carmel friends of Mrs. Anna C. Storror were saddened to learn of her death at Haven Oaks, Pasadena on Tuesday, May 19. She was a frequent visitor here where she had a cottage on Lincoln and Eighth streets.

Surviving her are her husband, J. M. Storror, her sister, Mrs. Joseph C. Meany, her nephew, Philip J. Meany, all of the southern part of the state, and Mrs. Ernest Leffingwell of Carmel.

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

Dr. James E. Crowther will preach the second sermon in the series on Victorious Living next Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer. The theme will be "Facing Our Limitations." We all have them. No one can do everything, but everyone can do something superlatively. Some men fail by their superiorities; others succeed by their inferiorities. It's what we do with what we have that counts. Margaret Sherman Lea will play the following organ selections: "God Is a Spirit," Bennett; "Ave Maria," Arcadelt; "Ave Verum," Mozart; "Intermezzo," Mascagni; "Lento," Gluck. The service is at eleven; visitors are cordially invited.

Bible selections will include the following passages from II Timothy 4:7, 18. "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept faith: . . . And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen."

Amphibian Butterflies Light on the Hoof

"It was the spirit behind it, so much gaiety and youthful energy. It was the tunes. Lt. William Bolland did a job of work on them. That 'Always Beside You' is of the stuff hits are made of. It was Sgt. Frank Prugh, a real female impersonator. If you're going to start in on female impersonators, how about Cpl. Elmer Sozio's Senorita Carmel Veranda, and Sgt. Ray Evans' Nellie Pots, especially when he sang 'Don't Go in the Lions' Cage Tonight, Mother?' And there were no spots on the Harem Girls and the Can-Can dancers. Yes, but Lt. Charles Thomas was the man who put it over. He knows how to direct, and with genuine showman's instinct he put the review together so that it kept rising until it effervesced like a well shaken up bottle of beer. Naturally, next morning a bottle of beer . . ."

The audience liked it, so it's a good show—and well named, for it's been a long time since Carmel has talked up a show so energetically before and after.

The heavy work fell on Sgt. Paul Aurand, the tenor, whose appearance in every scene was the slim thread of unit that held the kaleidoscope together, for the scenes not only ranged around the world—Germany, Africa, South America, India, Russia—but skipped around in the plane of time taking a dip back into the nineties with a meller, "How Nellie Saved Dawg Island," with entre acts of the same vintage, and wound up in the near future with the Amphibians landing on enemy shores.

Sgt. Lorin McNeal, baritone, who made his first appearance in the South American scene, in which the bull committed suicide in the interest of preserving the good neighbor policy, sang pleasantly the hit tune of the show, "Always Beside You."

Sgt. Arthur Schlenker as Rudolph Murgatroid, a dark character, was well hissed in the meller, a villain's accolade. And Sgt. George Riley, the Southern Cunel, made all the mistakes written into the script as if they were purely accidental. P. V. Henry Watchman, Sgt. Paul Aurand, Sgt. Lorin McNeal and Cpl. Harold Maylone as the quartet were sufficiently good to make an impression in spite of the fact that they were on with that prize show stealer, Miss Madge Wheelt-wheeler, the Dawg Island Nightingale.

But the real hero of the show was Pfc. Max Lucero. He had the courage to play Goebbel.

And now we should like to close with the squib that appeared on the program: "Any resemblance to any Stage, Screen or Radio Show, or anyone living or dead, or anyone living that outta be dead . . . Haw . . . Haw. We did it on purpose." —Wilma Cook.

Big Turnout for First Barn Door Canteen

The canteen was in charge of Peggy Chamberlain, with Mrs. W. W. Morgenthau as assistant, and hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Helene Vye, Mrs. Willard McGraw, Miss Betty Cole, Mrs. James Cooke, Mrs. Agnes Rushworth and Irene Carter.

Among those donating the refreshments of doughnuts, cider, sandwiches and cake were Mrs. John Dickinson, Mrs. Floyd Smith, Mrs. House, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Jr., Mrs. Holman, Miss Marion Hollins, Miss Mary Bartelme, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Wishart, Mrs. Estelle Gilbert and Noel Sullivan.

Headquarters of the Monterey Peninsula AWVS have been moved from Mission Inn, Monterey, to the offices provided for them by Mr. Mark Keller, at 412 Tyler street. Furniture for their new home has been donated and loaned by Mr. T. A. Work and Mr. Laporte, while much of the painting has been done by the members of the A.W.V.S. themselves.

In a world now replete, so the papers say, with noble women, be you one of them perhaps you'd better creep into your uniform and go recruiting. But have you an eye for a pretty face, a risible that titillates at sight of Charlotte Kett in the doldrums of Nevada corn and cowboy, an ear that lends to a good bawdy line its very just due, and the fine taste for laughter at your tongue's end, there it is, all of it.
